"HIGH-HANDED"
At Saskatoon, Mr. Justice Bigelow had strong words of censure for a trust company which seized the stock of a merchant, valued at $1000 to $1800, in satisfaction of a debt of $150. In the wind-up, the merchant—a woman, by the way—got $225 out of the settlement. That the justice thought this a "high-handed piece of business" will occasion no surprise.

Yet municipalities do that sort of thing right along, are empowered by law to do it, and draw down there for doing it. That the justice in arrears with his taxes for three years, the city clamps a caveat on his property, and eventually seizes it. If it is an "outrage" for a private firm to grab property for so small a fraction of its value, there is no moral defence for the financial institution being allowed to do the same. The property should be confiscated until the back taxes have amounted to something more than twenty or twenty-five per cent of its value.

PRODUCTION UP: PRICES DOWN Thirty-nine new oil companies have been incorporated in Alberta during the last two years.
Capital invested in these companies has been about $10,000,000. In 1935, it is stated. Production is now at the rate of seven million barrels a day, a substantial increase, it is last year.

Everything connected with the oil-production industry has gone up. The cost of the oil, the cost of the equipment, the cost of the labor, the cost of the transportation, the cost of the production has gone up, and the price of the oil has gone up.

Production is now three times the volume of consumption in the province. The hope of a return on the investment made in the industry is the value of the stock, depends on the finding of new buyers, somewhere outside Alberta, for the surplus now coming out of the ground and increasing with every new well that is brought in.

PRACTICAL CONSERVATION
Alberta and Saskatchewan are the only two provinces in Canada which provide free treatment for persons afflicted with tuberculosis.
Residents of these provinces are entitled to be proud of the leadership thus given by them, as many have reason to be thankful for the service rendered. There is something of a reflection on other provinces here, however, in that they followed the lead, but there can be little doubt they will do so in the near future.

While this is a laudable policy, it is not commendable only on grounds of sympathy for the afflicted. Other and worse considerations must be taken into account. The cost of the financial catastrophe for the victim or his family if the cost has to be privately borne. The sufferer must live months, perhaps years of the effort and wages. And in addition there is a bill of expense incurred which may take him or his family years to work off. The public interests are served when a person afflicted with tuberculosis is kept out of the community, and is handicapped over a long period. It is probably "good business" for society—as well as an act of humanity—to shift the cost onto the public, and leave the victim with nothing more serious to face when he recovers than the problem of earning a living in a world in which he has for a time got out of touch.

FIRST THINGS FIRST
Hon. N. W. Rowell, chairman of the Royal Commission investigating Dominion relations, says the commissioners would like to have arguments for and against the proposal that the federal government should be asked to Premier Bracken says he is for it. The views of the other two premiers will be asked, and no doubt presentations will be welcomed from other provinces and organizations.

This proposal is one of the hardy perennial subjects for discussion in the west, but for a minority it has been a subject of discussion for many years. It is a subject which has been discussed in the west, but for a minority it does not want to account for admitting that it estimated results of the proposal, and it is not too free. Then the blame is laid onto past Dominion governments for having governed the west up into this predicament, and the population with three-fold expenses of government.

But when crops are good and prices good, the amalgamation idea recedes into the background, and governments and legislators live with each other in painting the great and giorous future opening to their respective provinces.
Disregarding the merits and demerits of the proposal itself, it obviously is not one that could be carried through without the most strenuous negotiation and legislation; if ever. The main purpose of the present Commission is to find ways and means to keep the peace between the west and Premier Bracken has shown there is no time to be lost if that is to be done. If the Commission wanders too far afield tracking down side-lanes and issues, it is liable to be the time the reports get in.

MORE "INCIDENTS"

The explanation department at Tokyo must be working overtime these days. The military branch, operating in China, is keeping it busy framing assurances of official respect for incidents in which the British ship was fired on, injured or have lost property. The idea that such incidents should be avoided does not seem to weigh heavily in the calculations of the military leaders.

To Canadians, whatever it is that is going on in China does not seem so far away since the news came that the British ship was fired on by machine-guns while attempting to evacuate a party of Canadian nurses from an island near the Japanese coast. The Japanese government notified beforehand of the ship's arrival, the official regretters will have to do some fancy explanations if they are not going to be considered abroad as having been ordered.

Near Nanking a gunboat and two other British ships were struck by bombs dropped by Japanese aircraft. The Japanese do not suggest these occurrences were other than accidents, due to the crowded conditions of the river and the guerrilla warfare that has been going on. It is that foreigners have not exerted themselves as they might have done to get out of harm's way. They have had plenty of warning that the Nanking area would be bombed, and had no reason to doubt the threat would be carried out.

In fairness to Japan—and it has enough to answer for—it is to be remembered that the valley of the Yangtze is an area where it would be exceedingly difficult to carry on war without injuring neutral and innocent people. As British and American interests are particularly numerous there, it is not strange that these should attract the Japanese. The Japanese warfare where no distinction is being made between peaceful villages and military centres, or between civilians and armed forces.

Washington: Immediate declaration of war against Austria-Hungary was recommended to Congress today by President Wilson. The President's declaration of war against Austria-Hungary and Germany is beaten. All talk of peace has been put off of the question. Peace, he said, can only come when the German people make it through rulers whom the world can trust, they make reparations for the destruction their armies have wrought, and when Germany recedes from all the territory acquired by armed conquest.

TORONTO'S SINGLE JOBS

As a result of a conference between Mayor Robinson and Hon. Peter Heenan, Toronto will send a number of its single unemployed to the northwest. The government will be asked to examine them for medical fitness and will see that they get work. The city will make them a gift of $15 apiece for warm clothing and lend them money to get to the northwest.

It is anticipated, however, that only a small proportion of the single jobs will be found fit for the work. The government will be asked to maintain the maintenance of single men, the responder will have to be kept by the city. There is no choice. They cannot be allowed to starve or turned out to beg. But something should be done, and Premier Bracken has shown there is

STATE CAPITALISM

Speaking in Ottawa on Friday night, Professor E. L. Bruce, of Queen's University, told of what he saw in Russia during two months spent there last summer, said among other things:
"Russians are encouraged to invest their savings in government bonds which pay good interest, while saving deposits pay interest of six percent."

Thus the Russian, like the rest of us, is pretty much of a capitalist. In the good old-fashioned capitalist way his government loans and pays interest to a bondholder.

If that is a part of the Marxian creed, then the Russian, like the rest of us, is pretty much of a capitalist. In the good old-fashioned capitalist way his government loans and pays
interest to a bondholder.

One of the evil propensities of the time is the habit of bandying about words and terms in a loose way and without any attempt to define them. We speak of "Fascism" and "Communism" almost as though they embraced everything outside of democracy, and most of us would be hard put to define either.

CITIZENSHIP RESPONSIBILITY
By FRANK J. LOSCH
President, Chicago Civic Commission (From an address to the Chicago conference of Klugeville clubs.)

Moral laws govern the world. Neither individual nor governments can escape their action. Whether they are the result of unconscious development of what was right or wrong in the world, or whether they are the result of conscious choice, they are there, and justice, and right. The speed with which world opinion comes to the rescue of a nation is evidence of the power of the world.

The men who in private and public life seek to gain their ends by the use of force, and between man and man, are the ones who are the gainers in life long run.

"Corruption wins not more than honesty."

The increasing power of the press and the people, its wide reading of the news and comments of the day in newspapers, periodicals, and publications, every day, is a factor in the increasing power of the press and the people, and is a factor in the increasing power of the press and the people.

Lincoln led his election to the United States senate from Illinois because, against the advice of his friends, he realized that he could be defeated that a house divided against itself could not stand; that this country could not remain half-free and half-slave; it was either all free or all slave. He was a man of his word, and he was a man of his word.

People recognize honesty in conduct of office and in public speech by their officials and statesmen.

There is an increasing public impatience with promises by candidates for office which are forgotten after election. When the truth is exposed, the public is disappointed. The public is disappointed. The public is disappointed.

We have a good example of adhesion to truth and frankness in the career of Thomas E. Dewey, who by appointment of the Governor of New York, was appointed to the post position in the newspaper world. The President's message to Congress has aroused great interest here.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

This is being written in response to many requests for material on the subject of shingles.
Shingles refer to an acute disease which is characterized by an eruption which is usually confined to one side of the body. The eruption is in the form of dense, firm, blisters. In addition to the blisters, the disease is characterized by pain, which may be very severe.

The medical name for the disorder is "Herpes Zoster." We get the popular name of "shingles" from the Latin word meaning girdle—this name being given by the disease because of the fact that the blisters may form down the trunk like a girdle.

The disease may occur in either sex at any age but apparently is most common between the ages of 40 and 50 years. When occurring in infants, the pain is likely to be more marked than in the case of children. It is believed that the disease is caused by the virus of the varicella, the same virus which causes the disease of late fall, winter and spring.

As a general rule, there is a close connection between shingles and enervation; the one having shingles usually being one who has been en-erger by mental overwork, worry, or excessive physical activity. In my practice I have found a definite history of nerve waste in nearly every case.

Strangely enough, shingles sometimes occurs in epidemic form—for example, one well-known hospital in England reported that in a particular case it was found the epidemic came from the drinking of beer containing arsenic. Among the drugs, arsenic appears to exert a marked effect in causing shingles.

Shingles is sometimes known to follow injury —it has been known to follow a gunshot wound or follow the pricking of the skin with a thorn.

However, in the average case, shingles is the result of the presence of the virus in the bloodstream, which toxins have a tendency to settle around a certain group of nerves. The disease is characterized by the inflammation localized over the course followed by nerves under the skin. If the toxins were deposited in the muscles, the patient might develop a myositis, but apparently because of a susceptibility to nervous disorders, the toxins appear to affect the nerves.

Thus, in the case of shingles there are two conditions which must be satisfied before the disease can develop. The first is the presence of certain toxins in the bloodstream, which are encouraged to form by the abnormal state of enervation; and the second condition is that the affected nerve or nerves must be especially sensitive.

Pain is one of the characteristic symptoms of shingles, usually being more marked in the latter part of the disease. It may precede the skin rash—in fact, in some cases it has been known to precede the eruption of the skin. It is also known to appear after the eruption is gone.

Sometimes the pain disappears with the rash, but more usually it remains for some time afterward. The pain tends to become worse at night, inducing a great deal of restlessness. Patients are often troubled with the inflammation of the skin, and report that it is burning or boiling in nature. Some patients describe it as being like the feeling of a hot iron being pressed against the skin.

Tomorrow's article will go on with the discussion of shingles. Watch for it in this newspaper.

QUESTION: Ernest B. inquires: "What is the difference between arterial hardening and arterial hypertension, or are they the same thing?"

ANSWER: The term "arterial hardening" is another that I had hardening of the arteries.
My worst trouble seems to be a sensation of tightness and numbness in the head.

QUESTION: Mr. J. F. writes: "I have heard that form of protein which is easily digested and nourishing, but I do not believe their use would make one any more of a lumber.

Duke of Gloucester May Bring His Duchess on Canadian Visit

Duke Recalls Polo Accident Suffered on Vancouver Trip

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Duke of Gloucester last night told a Canadian club dinner he hoped he and his Duchess might be able to visit the country in the near future.

He recalled a brief visit he made to the Dominion in 1929, when he suffered an accident while playing polo.

A fortnight's holiday on the east coast of Canada, he said, would be a better value than the month he spent there in many over-crowded continental resorts.

The Duke recalled that he broke his collar-bone in an accident at Vancouver, but he had been landed on Canadian soil.

What I heard and saw during that time has remained with me ever since as an incentive to go back there."

Since 1929 he had followed "the fortunes of the Dominion, her many problems and her people, and he was determined to know with an interest that he would increase as the years go by."

The Duke said Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London, had mentioned the large number of Canadians who came to England last summer for the Coronation.

"He has told us Canada would be a much greater resource for visits," the Duke continued. "I should like to enforce this suggestion on all the visiting commands."

The Duke was a brilliant guest of Canadian and British nobles—Canadian and British nobles—in London attended by the Archbishop of Canterbury, referring to the Coronation ceremony, told the guests that by the Statute of Westminster "the King is not merely the King of the British Empire, but the personal King of Scotland, referring to the Empire, said: 'We must learn to live together, or perish separately.'"

The Duke of Gloucester, one of the most-invested members of the royal family and third son of the late King George V, suffered a fracture of the collar-bone when he broke his neck during a polo match at Vancouver, June 4, 1929.

The Duchess, the former Lady Alice Scott, has just completed a month's rest following a minor operation.

Great Britain Keeps in Touch With Empire, Chamberlain Says

Question of dominion participation in the diplomatic negotiations was raised in the House of Commons by Mr. Chamberlain, Minister of Finance, in reply to a question by Mr. Chamberlain.

"His Majesty's governments in the dominions have been kept fully informed regarding all aspects of the negotiations for the League of Nations, as well as on those toward the dominions of Anglo-American trade treaty."

"I can assure you," he told the annual meeting of the British Empire League, "that at every stage of the negotiations for the League of Nations, as well as on those toward the dominions of Anglo-American trade treaty."

Black Beetle Hotel Burns: Guests Escape

CADMON, Dec. 7.—Early this morning, the famous Black Beetle hotel, one of Cadmon's landmarks, was destroyed on Monday. The hotel, a two-story frame building, was built in 1919.

All rooms on the top floor were occupied by guests, who were awakened at 11:30 p.m. by a night alarm. Some of them lost their belongings.

With a slight breeze blowing, it brought out the fire, which was not extinguished, but heretofore was under control. The fire was not extinguished, but heretofore was under control.

Recovery of Mountain Hermit Said Doubtful

BANFF, Alta., Dec. 7.—Recovery of Billy Carver, 71-year-old hermit of Johnson's Lake, was doubtful, according to hospital reports.

In an advanced stage of starvation, after four foodless days, Carver was too weak to speak, said Dr. G. M. Atkin, attending physician.

He took no interest in world events. He never knew King George VI was dead until he met a tourist a few days before King George VI was crowned.

LOVE-LORN MAN CONTINUES HIS 50-YEAR SILENCE

AUDUBON, Iowa, Dec. 7.—Left at the altar by a girl 50 years ago, a love-lorn man continues his 50-year silence.

A few times recently Perry has been reluctantly forced to express love by uttering a single whispered word.

During the last 27 years, he has been in intervals an inmate of the Audubon County home where he has a separate room. The suit of clothes which was to have been his wedding suit is now put away carefully and he has not worn it since.

TRADES GROUP WANTS HOUSING PLAN EXTENDED Will Seek Co-Operation From City Council In Near Future Edmonton's Trades and Labor Council will make representations to the city council in the near future seeking the co-operation of that body in the extension of the federal government's housing scheme.

At a meeting of the trades body Monday evening a lengthy discussion on the possibility of the broadening of the scope of this plan took place during which it was intimated by Alfred Farnham, secretary, that any representations for the broadening of the scope of the plan to increase employment would be most favorably considered by Hon. Norman Rogers, federal minister of labor.

MAY PRESENT BRIEF
Discussion also took place on the advisability of presenting a brief to the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations. It was decided to deal with the questions of amalgamation of Canada's railways, and selective immigration in a brief through the Alberta Federation of Labor, which will be incorporated in the general brief to be presented by the Trades Congress of Canada.

The secretary, Alfred Farnham, in connection with the business aspect of the Carpenters' Union, was instructed to ask the city council on the question of wages paid to carpenters on the day and night shifts on the power plant work.

AVERAGE VALUE $650
She stated that the carloads of vegetables were valued at from $700 to $1,000 each, with an average value of $650. The vegetables were donated by farmers.

Distribution was arranged by a committee (including church ministers, representatives of the Masonic Order, secretaries of municipal districts and city council members) and was presented as was considered necessary.

CAUCUS CALL NOT ISSUED, SAYS PREMIER

Premier William Abernethy on Tuesday denied a rumor originating in southern Alberta, that a call had gone out for an immediate caucus of Social Credit members of the legislature in this city.

The Premier stated that no such call had gone out and none was contemplated.

Asked regarding the next caucus of members of the Social Credit forces, he said that, as he had previously said, the next would be held just prior to the next session of the legislature.

While the date of the session has not been fixed, it is believed the opening of government plans to convene the house about the middle of January. It is expected that the date will be set in the near future, as the government must give notice of the opening of the session.

The Inquiring Reporter
Japan's undeclared war against China and her ruthless slaughter of helpless Chinese civilians has brought a storm of protest from those nations of the world which hold humanitarian principles above all other factors in the Sino-Japanese struggle.

Bitter criticism of Japan's actions has resulted in the boycotting of her goods by citizens of many countries as an unofficial retaliatory measure.

Here are the opinions of a few Edmontonians on this point as gleaned by The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter.

LOVE REYNOLDS, businessman: While a boycott of this kind is usually a dangerous weapon to employ against any country, in Japan's case I think it is warranted. As it is inadvisable for us to take up arms against Japan, our only recourse is to adopt a course of action which will have a detrimental effect on her economic status. If by a boycott we can stop the horrors that are being perpetrated in China, then I think it is justified.

WALLY STAFFORD, businessman: World diplomacy demands that we exercise caution in any retaliatory steps we take against any nation, for the consequences of such measures may be serious to the powers who want to maintain peace. But in this particular instance—Japan's utter disregard of humanitarian ideals—I think there is only one course open to us. And that is the boycott. Japan, as well as other aggressive nations, must be taught that we will not condone such brutal tactics as are now being employed in China.

ED MONTGOMERY, accountant: The boycotting of Japanese-manufactured goods which is noted Great Britain, Canada and the United States, particularly is evidence that Japan will not be allowed to continue her ruthless work in China without suffering for it in this day when all nations depend largely on international trade for economic strength. A boycott is an effective weapon. We cannot remain indifferent to the massacre of civilians, even when countries are at war.

Faulty Lights Are Blamed For Two Accidents

Two extremes in faulty headlamps were named by police as the causes of two traffic accidents Monday night.

At 6 p.m. John Foster, of the Lantana hotel, crashed into the rear of a blue line street car near the intersection of 104 Avenue and 124 Street. Foster told police he was blinded by the lights of a car coming from the opposite direction.

Dr. G. S. Charlesworth, 1107 50 Street, told police that a car which had been left parked without lights on 100 Street between 47 and 48 Avenues, Monday evening, Dr. Charlesworth's car skidded into the parked car belonging to Edith McCormack of Calgary.

The car was found to have a minimum of 30 days more of the opening in government plans to convene the house about the middle of January. It is expected that the date will be set in the near future, as the government must give notice of the opening of the session.

LOTS SOCIETY TO ADMINISTER CITY PROPERTY
The city has authorized the Edmonton Horticultural and Vacant Lots Garden Society to supervise the planting of city-owned vacant lots for gardening purposes during the coming year following an application made for such authorization by the Society.

The Society has undertaken to plant a total of 100 plants for the organization this year being 4,000. Of this number, 1000 lots were allotted free-of-charge to the Society to cooperate with the land and relief departments, while the city would also give assistance to prevent city property becoming weed-infested and unsightly through neglect.

Spaniards Convinced They Will Win War

ARMY'S ASSAULT ON ARAGON FRONT

Rebel General Has 250,000 For Drive He Hopes Will End Fight

EDITOR'S NOTE: Edward J. Neil has just come out of Spain after six months of the insurgent armies. In the following dispatch he tells how German and Italian aid during that half year has convinced the insurgents they will win the civil war.

By EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Foreign Staff

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The course of the last six months of the Spanish civil war has convinced the insurgent forces that the Republican government is fast running out of time.

Germany and Italy have supplied open aid; most of Spain's raw materials have fallen into their hands; General Franco's Franco has in place 250,000 men for the northern drive he hopes will end the war.

Half a year ago the issue still hung in the balance. The insurgents were staggered by the overwhelming defeat of the Italian legions at Guadalajara in March, just as Madrid seemed at Franco's mercy. The government seemed impregnable in the northern provinces. Vizcaya, Santander and Asturias were rich in treasures of coal, iron, copper and tin—raw materials war needs.

Not openly joined, Germany and Italy had not joined in the insurgent movement. The bid of monarchists, army leaders, priests, aristocrats and fascist-minded fanatics to overthrow a democratic government was met with hesitations. Incidents threatened foreign intervention to protect the revolt in mid-October.

Today the attitude of Great Britain and France toward Franco's uprising is more open. Italy and Germany are more open. Japan in the far east. All mystery about Italian and German aid has disappeared. Germany sent planes, aviators, technicians, and munitions. Italy sent even greater quantities of these and more troops.

France's armies have swept the north and today control all the raw materials of Spain. The southern mercury mine. The general rules of the Franco-Spanish coalition, including Italy, Spain and Germany, more than 250,000 men of the coalition, 250,000 population.

Has MARKED ARMIES Along the Aragon front, the French border, Franco has marked his armies. He generally is expected to strike down the broad valley of the river Ebro, then turn eastward to Barcelona, seat of the government, Spain's industrial center and largest seaport.

Six separate armies have been prepared to take part in the attack, which will coincide with lesser operations at Madrid and in the south. The armies include: A center force of the 2nd of March Llorito and Plunni divisions, commanded by their own generals.

The Spanish regular army—known as the Tercio—has been Franco at the start of the civil war, July 18, 1936. Some 50,000 troops, many of them pulled away from the Madrid front for the offensive.

Taxpayers Hold Monthly Meeting The regular monthly meeting of the Taxpayers' Protective Association was held Monday night in the Public Library. Several questions of interest to Edmonton taxpayers were discussed, including municipal taxation in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

The meeting approved the action of the executive committee in asking city officials that preference be given taxpayers and their families in all city employment.

A letter from the Ontario Property Owners' Association was read, suggesting that the Edmonton Association include a Property Owners' Association in Alberta to include all local associations. This matter was referred to the executive committee with power to act.

Santa's "Little Helper"

Santa Claus may be working like a beaver in the frozen north, but he's never got it the Christmas stockings filled without help from the Edmonton firemen. Fire ladders, under Fire Chief Albert Dutton, are accommodating clumsy fingers to the delicate task of removing dolls, trains, teddy bears and tricycles of yesterday to gladden the hearts of needy children whose Santa might forget. Above you see a fire ladder built especially for the job.

Edmonton Firemen To Gladden Hearts Needy Children At Yuletide

About 2,500 needy children in the City of Edmonton are going to be happy this Christmas because members of the city fire department don't want Santa Claus to miss any child.

At a corner at the back of the fire hall, squeezed in between fire trucks, ladders, hose and connections, regular workshop has been rigged up—and there a crew of firemen are working night and day, making and repairing toys for children whom "Santa" would otherwise forget.

E. J. FREAM IS CHIEF WITNESS AT TOWN PROBE

Beverly Administrator Should Have Been Appointed in 1933

Appointment of an administrator at Beverly should have been made in 1933 in the opinion of E. J. Fream, former public utility commissioner, and recommendation to that effect had been made to the town's trustees for the first time at that time. Mr. Fream stated in evidence before the Royal Commission inquiring into the present financial affairs of Beverly.

Mr. Fream was on the stand during most of Monday's proceedings and he was the chief witness at Tuesday's hearing.

The witness said he had opposed the appointment of W. H. Weir as administrator by the town council and had refused to pass an additional budget to the town's trustees for the purpose as it could not be shown that the town's commitment would result in an increase in royalties from the Beverly Coal Company which would compensate for the salary expended on the job.

NO APPLICATION Mr. Fream stated that while he was a member of the commission to application had been received from Beverly council, seeking the right to tax minerals lying under the town's lands.

He said the Beverly town council repeatedly disregarded orders of the board, that it did not make sufficient effort to collect taxes and had over-expended its budget on numerous occasions.

Albert J. McGill, former Beverly storekeeper, said he lost $2,700 in shares and debts owing by Beverly.
